In responding to the needs of our customers undergoing global, crisis-driven operational challenges, we have created a simple digital document delivery service that can be delivered within seven days. The service is built on our existing, highly secure document processing and document archiving platforms that are already in production servicing hundreds of customers each day.

What's included

- A scanner or scanners are connected to a workstation within the customer's environment and an online application is used to scan and deliver the documents.
- Easy to use, browser based authentication and workflow with no need for software installation on the customer's environment.
- Users view new and active documents, add comments, and forward documents to other users.
- The service has already been fully tested to meet IT security and compliance requirements and all actions are maintained in an audit trail.

How it works

Scanner is connected to a PC at the customer's location that has access to the Internet. Operator logs onto a secure application and is authenticated.
